Chamber names late Lagasse Outstanding Citizen

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce has posthumously honored James A. "Jimmy" Lagasse as its 1987 Outstanding Citizen of Hancock County.

Chamber Special Events Chairperson Sherilyn Breland presented the award to his wife, Phil Lagasse, and his son, Jay Lagasse, Friday night during the Chamber's annual banquet at Diamondhead Country Club.

"Mr. Lagasse created an association with the people of Waveland and Hancock County that has lasted for many, many years," Breland stated.

She cited his assistance to the people of Waveland during the aftermath of a major hurricane as one of the first memorable ways in which Lagasse had assisted Hancock counties.

"The day after the 1947 hurricane, he was the first person to arrive from New Orleans, having traveled through old highways and backroads to get here," she said.

"His car was loaded with fresh bread, canned food and milk, baby bottles and other much needed items. He then began a string of car-loaded trips to Waveland to help people."

Lagasse had moved to Waveland in 1952, but had become active in the community before becoming a permanent resident.

While living in Waveland on weekends, he became a member of a group that began holding dances for young people in the old Waveland School on Friday nights. He furnished refreshments and transportation and served as a chaperone.

He served on the committee that reopened the King's Daughters Hospital and continue his community service in that area by working to get Hill-Burton funding for the then new Hancock General Hospital.

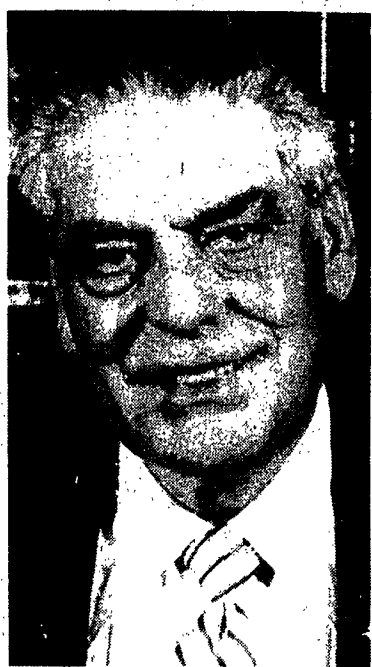

After Hurricane Camille, Lagasse had the only working well in his neighborhood because the company he worked for had sent him a generator. When a U.S. Navy communications van was set up in the area, he was able to open his home to the Navy personnel and provide them with bathing facilities.

Lagasse and his son maintained a food distribution center at Lakeshore School for two weeks after the storm, as well as unloading clothing and bringing ice to the hospital.

For many years after the storm, Lagasse served the Hancock County Civil Defense Department as its disaster shelter coordinator.

He was also an active member of St. Clare Catholic Church, where he worked for 22 years with the annual church fair and was co-chairman for part of that time. He also served as president of St. Clare's Holy Name Society, Ushers' Society and Parish Council.

JAMES A. LAGASSE

He was president of the Waveland Civic Association for many years and donated the two lots where the association's den for the St. Patrick's Day Parade floats now stands.

In 1979, Lagasse served as the parade's grand marshal.

In 1976, he received approval from the association to take over the annual Muscular Dystrophy collection campaign for Hancock County and was named coordinator for the New Orleans office. He had received numerous awards in connection with the thousands of dollars he collected over the years.

In 1980, he was presented an Honorary and Distinguished Citizenship award from the City of Waveland for his many years working toward the betterment of the city.

Lagasse also received an Volunteer Service Award for Outstanding Volunteer Service from the State of Mississippi.

He was also a charter member of Bourgeois-Steffel-Ray American Legion Post 77 and worked after his retirement with Retired Senior Volunteers Program (RSVP), delivering meals to shut-ins as well as assisting at the Hospitality Center.

Also honored Friday was Melissa Duncan, who was awarded the 1987 Dick Kosbab Memorial Education Award by Chamber Education Committee Chairperson Syble Paul.

Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max A. Duncan Jr. of Pearlinton, graduated from Bay Senior High School in 1986 as valedictorian of her senior class, with a grade point average of 96.3 for all four years of high school.

She had been an Alpha-Beta Honor Roll student and a member of the Battle reenactment, mark dedication scheduled for today

The Hancock County Historical Society will present a modified reenactment of the Battle of the Bay of Saint Louis 1814 2 p.m. at the corner of Ulman and Beach Blvd. Dec. 13.

It was during this battle that the ship the Sea Horse assisted by two guns mounted on the shore gallantly fought the superior numbers of the British.

After two days of battle, six Americans were dead and 35 were wounded, the British suffered losses more than double these.

The period of time of this battle allowed Andrew Jackson to complete his fortification for the defense at Chalmette and ultimately swung the war in favor of the Americans.

A marker will be dedicated by Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz Jr. and a wreath will be thrown in honor of those who died. The public is invited to attend this ceremony.

Ladner to retire as Bay principal

BY DENA BISNETTE

Bay Senior High School Principal Frank Ladner has announced his retirement after more than 27 years as an educator, all of which he served with the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District.

Ladner will leave the position on Dec. 18, Superintendent of Education Roger Oge stated that an interim principal or a successor to Ladner will be selected at Monday night's school board meeting, scheduled for 7 p.m. at the superintendent's boardroom at Bay Senior High School.

Ladner said he plans to go to work as a Metropolitan Life Insurance representative.

"This school district has been the only employer I have ever had," the principal said. "I would like to thank a few people, the student body, the faculty, the school administration and all the various people I have worked with throughout this community, not just in this district."

"I have tried to make my contribution through the kids of this community."

Ladner was recruited off the Mississippi State University campus by former Superintendent of Education Joe McCulloch in 1959 as an industrial arts teacher.

After teaching two years at the building that is now Bay Junior High but was then the high school, Ladner found his career interrupted for about 18 months by military service.

When he returned, he organized the district's first guidance department and served as its first counselor.

After about five years, he became coordinator for Title I, a federally funded skills enrichment program now known as Chapter I. During his service in that capacity, he was able to secure for federal funding for the construction of the district's first tennis courts, which he supervised.

He was then promoted to assistant high school principal, a post in which he served 12 years under Principal Robert Magee, who is now assistant superintendent.

"Frank Ladner is the nicest fellow you could work with. We'll miss him," Magee commented.

Ladner continued to teach a class in mechanical drafting until becoming Bay High's principal three years ago.

He also continued to serve as sponsor for National Honor Society, which he helped organize in the Bay District.

"Over 27 and a half years, this school system has been good to me," he said. "I'm very proud to show that I am part of the Bay High family with three children, Ricky, Karen and Kevin, who have graduated from Bay High and my son Greg, who will graduate in May. My wife is also a Bay High graduate."

Ladner is a native of Dedeaux, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt Ladner, still reside. He is a graduate of Dedeaux High School and Mississippi State University.

He is a member of Mississippi Professional Educators Association, Mississippi Association of School Administrators, Our Lady of the Gulf Church, and Hancock County Exchange Club and is a former member of American Legion Post 139.

Hancock County MADD Chapter to observe awareness week

BY DENA BISNETTE

A recently formed Hancock County Chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving is going across the Gulf Coast from Waveland to Long Beach to enlist support for National Drunk and Drugged Driver Awareness Week.

According to MADD President Susan McKinley and volunteer Kathy Steube, who is assisting her in the campaign, the week designated begins Sunday and continues through Dec. 19.

The two, with help from other MADD volunteers, have secured proclamations from officials in Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Pass Christian and Long Beach recognizing the weeklong observance.

In addition, law enforcement officials have been very cooperative, the two said.

"We're not trying to close down bars," McKinley said. "We just don't want people to drink and drive."

She said MADD is encouraging the use of designated drivers, individuals who will not drink in order that their companions have a safe, sober ride home.

They are asking bar owners to provide free coffee and soft drinks to designated drivers.

In addition, several police departments including Bay St. Louis and Waveland are providing rides to people who get drunk during the holidays.

"If you call us, we'll give you a ride home, but if we catch you driving drunk, we'll give you a ticket," said Waveland Police Investigator Robert Tartavouille.

Tartavouille said Waveland Police Department supports MADD and lets the Hancock County Chapter meet at the police station at 7 p.m.

on the first Wednesday of each month.

He said Waveland, which has had the state's highest per capita number of DUI arrests for the past two years, has had no fatalities since the police department got tough on drunken drivers.

MADD is also asking support for changes in legislation that will provide stiffer penalties for drunk driving.

In addition, the Hancock County chapter is asking that drivers help observe Drunk and Drugged Driver Awareness Week by displaying red ribbons on car antennas or door handles.

"In a lot of the alcohol-related accidents, it's not the drunk driver who dies. It's the other driver or a passenger," McKinley said.

"We're just asking people who drink to not think of themselves, but to think of someone else."

Wielding his wit as deftly as a neurosurgeon's scalpel, comedian Mark Russell pinpoints official pomposity and sometimes the utter absurdity of American politics when his next comedy special airs on Mississippi ETV.

Russell lets his barbs fly in the form of droll or spicy commentary that usually ends in a twist of lemon, or he belts out parodies on his star-spangled barbershop piano, tunes based upon well-known or original melodies that start out sofly cynical and wind up bringing forth guffaws of laughter.

Broadcast live from the Katharine Cornell Theatre at the State University of New York in Buffalo, the "Mark Russell Comedy Special" will air at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 15, on Mississippi ETV.

USM speaker: AIDS not transmitted by casual contact

Although the press does "a pretty good job" in reporting stories about AIDS, many Americans continue to believe the deadly virus can be transmitted through casual contact, an expert on the subject told a class at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Dr. Bruce Dull—a former U.S. assistant surgeon general, ex-assistant director of the Atlanta-based Center for Disease Control and a lecturer at the Harvard University School of Public Health—visited the USM campus Nov. 17-18 as a classroom lecturer and as a speaker for the university's University Forum lecture series.

"The (AIDS) virus itself has been detected in very sensitive laboratory tests in tears, in saliva, urine, feces, semen, vaginal fluids... certainly in blood and even sweat," Dull said.

"The only evidence of infection from any of those sources is from sexual secretions—semen, vaginal fluids—and blood," he added.

AIDS, or acquired immune deficiency syndrome, is caused by a virus that attacks the body's natural defense mechanisms to other diseases and infections. There is no AIDS vaccine and there is no known cure for the disease.

Dull called the detection of the AIDS virus in body fluids (other than sexual secretions and blood), "laboratory phenomena," which have caused many people to ignore the fact that sexual activity with a person carrying the AIDS virus and transfusions involving infected blood—including intravenous drug users sharing contaminated needles—are the only known transmitters of the disease.

Dull also said there is no evidence that mosquitoes could carry the AIDS virus from one person to another.

Even though the media is doing a "pretty good job" of educating the general public, Dull said media coverage showing rubber-gloved policemen removing homosexuals from public protests and referees wearing gloves to protect themselves from possible infection by prize fighters reflect the public's ignorance of the disease.

"People want to believe they are somehow surrounded by viruses that are going to be in the air, on people's

He was also a past member of Mississippi-Tennessee Law Enforcement Association.

Pete Johnson seeks measures to modernize county government

State Auditor-elect Pete Johnson recently announced that he has established and met with a committee of leaders representing governmental and business organizations to discuss various measures for modernizing county government.

"The modernization of county government is a critical first step in moving our State forward," said Johnson. "We must have in place a local government structure capable of addressing the challenges that lie ahead in improving our educational system and fostering economic growth."

Johnson said that the recommendation to be produced by this committee will then be presented to the New Governor, the 1988 Legislature and the citizenry as a whole.

Committee members working with Auditor-elect Johnson are: Eddie Washington, Executive Director of the Mississippi Association of Supervisors; Bob Plummer, Executive Director of Mississippi Economic Council and Phillip Pierce, that organization's Governmental Specialist; Lynn Presley, President of the Mississippi Chancery Clerks Association; Randy Kelly, Executive Director of Three Rivers Planning and Development District and Marty Wiseman of Mississippi State University.

At its first meeting held last week the group discussed a wide range of issues, including the following:

- Establishment of a computer-based information management system for all areas of county government; and
- Home rule for county government.

The committee plans to meet on a weekly basis and should ultimately have its position and recommendations developed sometime in January.

Mr. John Damborino

On Friday former owner and publisher of The Hancock County Eagle newspaper, Mr. John L. Damborino was laid to rest in Bay St. Louis.

Mr. John was associated with The Sea Coast Echo as a youth while still in school and for many years later before starting his own newspaper in Bay St. Louis in 1949.

After selling The Hancock County Eagle to The Sea Coast Echo in 1967, he again returned to work with the Echo for a period before moving to a job printing shop in Mississippi City.

Printer's ink had to be in his blood as he worked in the profession for over 65 years.

I was fortunate to have had the opportunity to work with Mr. Damborino at the Echo and also together with him on some projects when he had his own newspaper.

He was a fine outstanding citizen who performed whatever task at hand to the best of his ability, never letting up or giving in, always reaching for that little something extra.

His goal was always to produce, whether it be a newspaper or letterhead, to perfection.

To his wife, children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren, Mr. John will always be remembered by us as the great person he really was.

Quotables by Cuevas

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Annual Christmas banquet was well attended and everyone seemed to have had a good time.

It was a time to see old acquaintances and also meet new ones.

The selection of James A. (Jimmy) Lagasse, posthumously, by the chamber as the 1987 Outstanding Citizen of Hancock County could not have been more deserving.

As long as I had known Mr. Jimmy, as most folks called him, he was always doing something for someone or a group.

Whenever we talked, he was always in the process of doing something or planning and event which would help his friends and neighbors.

He seemed to possess boundless energy while going about his endeavours for his fellow man.

We know his wife, son, daughter and grandchildren all are very proud of Mr. Jimmy's recognition by the chamber.

Congratulations are in order for Miss Melissa Duncan upon receiving the Dick Kosbab Memorial Education award.

The outstanding student from Pearlinton is now attending the University of Southern Mississippi.

We have heard word from the coordinators of the Hancock County Food Pantry telling us they have received many cans of vegetables.

This is good and very much appreciated as the Food Pantry is an ongoing project in our community.

For the month of December we are informed of the need of laundry soap, canned meat, peanut butter and jelly.

It is good to watch the many volunteers each weekday working at the Food Pantry and helping those deserving people in need.

We hope everyone will remember the Food Pantry during this holiday season.

Mississippi House Of Representatives

REPRESENTATIVE-ELECT
J. P. COMPRETTA

The closely related issues of education and economic development are certain to rank among the top items of business in January when the Mississippi Legislature ushers in its first regular session of the new 1988-1992 term.

The 1988 session begins at noon Tuesday, Jan. 5, with the traditional swearing-in of House and Senate members, organizational work and other opening ceremonies. In the House of Representatives, the opening gavel will be rapped by the Secretary of State who also is slated to administer the oath of office to the 122 representatives.

Opening-day highlights will include the election of the House Speaker, the Speaker Pro Tempore and the Clerk of the House, each to serve for the coming four years. The new speaker will succeed longtime Speaker C. B. "Buddie" Newman, who did not run for reelection in 1987.

Improving the state's educational system, from kindergarten through the institutions of higher learning, often shared top billing with new jobs and economic expansion as favorite campaign topics during the past year's races for both legislative posts and other state offices.

Governor-elect Ray Mabus, who takes office Jan. 12, stressed education and economic growth in his successful bid for the state's top office. The incoming governor pledged to aggressively seek new industry and called for raising elementary and secondary school teachers' salaries to the Southeastern average.

The adoption of House rules, selection of standing committees, and introduction of bills and resolutions will come during the early stages of the session. Swearing-in ceremonies are planned on Thursday, Jan. 7, for Lieutenant Governor Brad Dye and other state officials, to be followed by the gubernatorial inauguration the coming week.

The 125-day session is due to end May 8. The State Constitution provides for the first session of a new term to last 125 days while other sessions are 90 days each year.

There will be a lot of new faces in both chambers, but lawmakers may find themselves wrestling with many of the same problems and issues that have confronted previous sessions—teachers' salaries, tort reform, sovereign immunity, constitutional revision, prison crowding, a mandatory county-unit system of government, mental health, Medicaid, and additional funding for universities and junior colleges.

State finances, as usual, probably will be a dominant issue throughout the session. One of the toughest jobs of any session is the disbursement of operating funds for schools, universities, health care programs, prison facilities and various state agencies and institutions. The task will not be easy in 1988, although revenues are currently exceeding budget estimates and the state's overall financial outlook is showing some improvement.

Separate budget recommendations will be submitted by the Joint Legislative Budget Committee and the Governor's Office. The final decision on these proposals, including funds for salary increases and any new or expanded programs, will be in the hands of lawmakers.

United States Senator

Thad Cochran

SENATE PASSES
ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY EDUCATION
ACT IMPROVEMENTS

Senator Thad Cochran says the Senate has passed an education act that improves funding for programs in Mississippi.

"I am pleased the Senate has approved this important legislation that provides federal funding for many vital programs in our state's educational system," Senator Cochran said.

His comments came following Senate passage of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1987, a bill he co-sponsored.

The Senator, a member of the Labor and Human Resources Committee which developed the bill pointed out that he was successful in gaining approval of a formula which authorizes $7 million in concentration grants for Mississippi.

Under Chapter 1 programs of ESEA, for disadvantaged children, there are basic state grants, and concentration grants for areas heavily concentrated with poor children.

Senator Cochran said his efforts in committee won approval of a formula that "helps protect the funding for poorer, rural states such as Mississippi who depend so heavily on these Chapter 1 programs in their elementary and secondary schools."

Also included in the bill are Chapter 2 programs, and those involving adult education and impact aid.

The education bill could provide Mississippi with up to 10 to 12 percent more funds in FY 1989. The state received about $75 million in formula-based programs, such as Chapters 1 and 2, adult education, and impact aid, during FY 1987. This would amount to about $7.5 to $9 million more for these programs in the state.

Other funds are available from discretionary funding under ESEA, but local and state officials must formulate programs and projects and specifically apply for and receive approval from the U.S. Department of Education.

The bill, S. 373, now goes to a House-Senate conference to work out differences between the two chambers.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Teachers have many roles

Dear Editor:

Many people believe that education is an honorable profession to be in, and rightfully so. But in this day and time, this particular profession is even more honorable than the general public ever imagined it could be.

The responsibilities that come with this job are overwhelming. It is no longer just the teaching of a particular subject. It is no longer just a matter of teaching and watching your students grow and mentally mature. And I am no longer just a teacher.

In fact, I under-rate myself if I say that I am only a teacher. My job entails much more than just teaching. I have to be many things to many people.

As I look back over the last 15 years of my career, there were times when I had to be something for which I was never properly trained. In addition to my teaching and discipline responsibilities, and all the paperwork involved with that, I occasionally take on the role of a police officer, a lawyer, a nurse, a supervisor, a manager and a psychiatrist.

Not only do I have to play those roles at times, but I am expected to have the patience of Job.

It's not that I don't love my job. I find it to be very challenging and rewarding at times. This is just my way or reminding or informing you, the general public, of who I really am.

Now, I must know this—what am I worth to you?

Respectfully,
Sandra Gray

Mississippi Economic Council
The State Chamber of Commerce

Governor-Elect Ray Mabus told state business leaders this week that his main job as governor will be economic development.

Mabus was the keynote speaker for the Mississippi Economic Council's Economic Development Summit Conference Tuesday in Jackson. More than 400 business, government and community leaders attended the day-long session.

Mabus said he has met with five industrial prospects since his election in November and that he has been talking with governors and governors-elect in neighboring states about a regional effort in economic development.

He said the areas of the country that have concentrated on a regional effort in recruiting industrial prospects "have been eating our lunch."

"We can do so much more when we cooperate than when we compete," Mabus said.

He told the group, "As of Jan. 12, the governor's main job is economic development. If you have a prospect and you want a phone call from the governor, all you have to do is ask. If you have a prospect and you think a visit from the governor will help, all you have to do is ask. We're going to wear out the airplane. There's not going to be a job in this country or in this world that Mississippi's not going to compete for and I guarantee you we're going to get more than our fair share."

MEC Chairman Kenneth Milam told Mabus the private sector is ready to help state leaders in an aggressive push for progress in Mississippi.

Three sessions on various aspects of economic development were included in the day's activities—the state of economic development in Mississippi today, featuring a panel of development experts; legislative priorities.

School board considering bids for roof repairs at Murphy school

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
A low bid of $92,000 is being considered for a project to reroof the Charles B. Murphy Elementary School by the Hancock County School Board.

Jim Wallis and Son Roofing, Inc. of Biloxi had the lowest of the six bids submitted for the project.

The school board took all bids under advisement and turned them over to Architect William Thompkins for review.

The Wallis bid was approximately $20,000 lower than the next lowest bid and Thompkins said he would review the bids to insure everything is in order.

Other bidders on the project and their bids include: Hub Sheet Metal and Roofing, Inc. of Hattiesburg, $112,336; J. E. Puckett and Company, Inc. of Gulfport, $127,115; South Central Roofing and Sheet Metal of Hattiesburg, $129,400; Cal-Mar Construction Company of Ridgeland, $133,650; and United Roofing and Construction, Inc. of Laurel, $133,650.

Thompkins said a preliminary estimate of cost had been set at $80,000 to $81,000.

Also at the meeting Thompkins reported to the board that steel studs on the eight-classroom addition project at Gulfview Elementary School should be completed this week and utilities were already installed.

He also requested the board advertise for classroom heaters with bids to be opened Jan. 4.

"The heaters currently in place in the classroom have been there 30 to 35 years and in some cases are just worn out," he said.

"We have been having problems for several years with many of the heaters and can't find parts to repair them any more," Superintendent Terrell Randolph reported.

He told the board some of the classrooms are being heated by electric space heaters at this time.

Also in the meeting Thompkins told the board he had made arrangements for a group from the Hancock School District to visit three schools in Louisiana this week.

This is the second trip to visit schools in the nearby area as plans are being finalized for the new junior-senior high school.

Thompkins said although the project is currently about seven weeks behind the proposed construction schedule, this delay is just taking up slack time in the schedule and the project should still be ready for bidding in July.

In other business the board:

—Approved a recommendation to employ Sandra LaFontaine as substitute teacher at Gulfview Elementary School.

—Approved a recommendation to employ Carolyn Landry as temporary worker in the Hancock North Central Cafeteria.

—Approved a recommendation to employ Ruby McJannet as cafeteria substitute for Hancock North Central Cafeteria.

—Approved a $1,585 payment to the Mississippi Forestry Commission for painting one mile of boundary lines in Section 16-6-14 and marking 190 acres of timber for sale in Section 16-7-15.

—Approved a payment to Attorney Jane Sharp in the amount of $2,000 for professional services and expenses rendered relative to the purchase of 45.5 acres of land from the White family for building site for the junior-senior high school.

—Approved payment to King Construction Company in the amount of $52,237 for work on the Gulfview eight-classroom building project.

—Approved repairs to the Charles B. Murphy Alarm system in the amount of $1,270 and entered into a rental agreement for additional equipment and maintenance services for the alarm system in the amount of $20 per month.

—Approved a request of Mississippi Forestry Commission to cancel a lease on the Necaise Tower Site in Section 16-5-14 due to the fact that they will no longer maintain a fire tower at this location and do not need the use of the land.

—Approved a request for a 50-foot right of way lease for GERALD Bond across Section 29-5-15 for 25 years at $25 per year.

—Approved a 16th Section land lease to Bradford Ladner for three acres in Section 16-6-14 as a recreational lease for 25 years for $250 per year.

—Approved a 16th Section land lease to Annie McDaniel, Lot 42, Board of Supervisors Subdivision No. 2, Section 16-9-18, as a residential lease for 25 years at $144 per year.

Governor declares week to prevent accidents

Gov. Bill Allain has proclaimed Dec. 13-19 as Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week in Mississippi, an effort to prevent alcohol—and other drug-related deaths and injuries on state highways.

For the third consecutive year, the emphasis will be upon responsibilities of hosting holiday parties where alcoholic drinks are being served, according to Billy Terrell, interim director of the Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs' Department of Criminal Justice Planning.

"Drunk and drugged driving still are Mississippi's most serious highway safety problems," Allain said, "and they have a role in at least 50 percent of our state's highway traffic fatalities."

"Far too many holiday celebrations are ruined by death or serious injuries related to having too much to drink or using other dangerous drugs," he noted.

Terrell suggested that party hosts take the following steps:

► If alcoholic beverages are served, also serve high protein and carbohydrate foods such as cheese and meats.

► If alcoholic punch is served, use a noncarbonated base such as fruit juice.

► Have nonalcoholic beverages available for guests who may not want to drink alcoholic beverages.

► Have several standard measures, such as jiggers or self-measuring one-ounce spouts at the bar to mix drinks and thus decrease the likelihood of guests drinking excessively.

► Don't force alcoholic drinks on guests or rush to refill their glasses when empty.

► If a guest is drinking too much, engage the person in conversation to slow down the drinking, and offer the individual some high protein food.

► If possible, approximately two hours before the party is over stop serving alcohol, and serve coffee or other nonalcoholic beverages as well as food.

"There's a growing trend among people partying together to designate a member of the group who is not drinking alcoholic beverages to do the driving," Terrell said. "This can be an important step in preventing deaths or serious injuries a drinking driver might cause." He outlined the following steps:

► Request local establishments where alcoholic beverages are served to sponsor designated driver programs which involve serving nonalcoholic drinks to designated drivers.

► Support designated driver programs by active participation.

► Respect the designated driver. Don't try to convince this individual to drink; support the decision not to drink and drive.

"Although the hosting and designated driver recommendations can be extremely effective," Terrell said, "the fact still remains that the best way to prevent alcohol—or other drug-related deaths and injuries on Mississippi roadways is to avoid using alcohol or other drugs and driving."

ETV Brief

EDUCATION

Motivation and the school environment will be the topic of the Sunday, Dec. 13, episode of "Education: The Way Up." Forest High School will be the subject of the regular feature segment when the program airs at 1 p.m. on Mississippi ETV.

Series' host Melaine Christopher will be joined in a panel discussion by Gary Gordon, principal of Forest High School; Diane Berry, seventh grade math teacher at Grenada Junior High School in Grenada; and Sara May, principal of Newton Elementary School in Newton. The panel will discuss how educators can motivate students and improve the school climate, thereby improving students' ability to learn.

"Education: The Way Up" is produced by Mississippi ETV and is designed to highlight innovative and creative educational programs across the state. This, the series' second year, is being underwritten by Chevron USA.

Angel Trees bear fruit of Christmas spirit

Children who might otherwise miss the joy of getting a new toy on Christmas morning may wake up to find there really is a Santa Claus. And he is living in the spirit of an Angel Tree.

The Mississippi Power Company

Chapter of the National Management Association has set up Christmas trees throughout the company's service area as locations for people to donate presents for underprivileged or troubled children by Friday, Dec. 18.

The NMA has set up Angel Trees in Mississippi Power Company's Bay St. Louis local office at 153 Main Street.

In Pass Christian, a tree will be set up in the local office at 118 Davis Avenue.

The toys collected will be distributed to the St. Vincent de Paul Society in Bay St. Louis and Waveland and to the Pass Christian Rotary Club.

"All children should have a chance for a merry Christmas, especially those with special problems," said Joan Santa Cruz, coordinator of the Angel Tree project. "Angel trees are the perfect way for people to share the holiday spirit."

Monetary donations to purchase gifts are also being accepted. The presents should not be wrapped so they can be matched with a child of an appropriate age.

New Troopers to add to patrol

Christmas for the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol will come in the form of 47 new blue and gray clad state troopers to be commissioned during ceremonies Friday, Dec. 18, 1987.

"The swearing in of these men and women will leave this agency only 40 officers short of its 590 authorized sworn positions," James L. Roberts Jr., commissioner of public safety said.

The 45 men and two women will take the oath of office during graduation ceremonies at 10 a.m. on the 18th in the gymnasium of the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers' Training Academy near Pearl.

"They have spent 13 weeks in rigorous training and have earned the distinction of serving in the ranks of the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol. We are going to be pleased to have them take the oath of office and go to work," Roberts said.

The rookie troopers will begin working before Christmas and will spend a minimum of 30 days with an experienced officer. Commanders of the nine Highway Patrol districts will add extra days to the month's on-the-job training if they determine that additional personal monitoring would be beneficial.

"Of the current 503 sworn personnel within the Highway Patrol, 285 are enforcement officers who work shifts patrolling state and federal highways. The remaining officers are supervisory enforcement personnel, criminal investigators, and driver services personnel which includes driver's license examiners, motor vehicle inspectors and implied consent agents," Roberts said.

The graduation of this class will bring to nine the total number of women serving as Mississippi troopers.

The average age of the graduates is 26. Twenty-seven of the 47 have attended college, two earning two-year degrees and seven earning four-year degrees.

An invitation is extended to the public to attend the graduation ceremony.

Jets to host Charleston team Tuesday at coliseum

The Mississippi Jets will host the Charleston Gunners in the Mississippi Coast Coliseum on Tuesday, Dec. 15.

The Jets are flying high since beating the previously undefeated Albany Patrons last Tuesday night.

The Patrons were 11-0, setting a Continental Basketball Association record for successive wins.

The big news with the Jets is the recent acquisition of Ennis Whitley, a 4-year NBA veteran.

The 6' 3" point guard played his college basketball at the University of Alabama. He was drafted in the first round at the end of his sophomore year.

The former Crimson Tide player scored 16 points and had 8 steals in his first CBA game.

As an added attraction to the pro game, the Biloxi High Indians will meet the Harrison Central Red Rebels in preliminary contests matching both the boys and girls teams.

The girls game will start at 3:30 p.m. followed by the boys game at 5:45 p.m. The Jets-Charleston contest will tip off at 7:35 p.m.

Tickets for the games are available at the Coliseum box office and both schools.

Open burning of rubber tires is punishable by $25,000 fine

The Bureau of Pollution Control has issued a warning that persons who are involved in the open burning of rubber tires are in violation of the Mississippi Air Emission Regulations and are subject to a fine of up to $25,000 a day.

According to Wayne Anderson, coordinator of the air quality management section, the Bureau will begin stricter enforcement of these regulations.

The Bureau is beginning the crack down because of the health hazard that is produced from the open burning of rubber tires. The poor combustion conditions that typically occur with the open burning of tires causes many organic chemicals to be emitted.

These chemicals may be carcinogenic or cancer-causing. Persons exposed to the smoke could also experience temporary respiratory problems and possibly more severe health problems.

Anderson said that tires are made of petrochemicals, many of which can cause unnatural modification of the body or genetic cells. The burning of tires also produces an unsightly smoke that obstructs vision, soils buildings, laundry and automobiles.

The burning of a stack of rubber tires causes more air pollution at any one time than many of the industries that are considered air pollutants. This tire burning will no longer be tolerated, said Anderson.

Martin Marietta receives National Guard support award

Martin Marietta Manned Space Systems has received the Pro Patria award for Louisiana from the National Committee for Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve.

Pro Patria, a Latin expression meaning "for the nation," is the top award presented by the committee to employers who support a strong Guard and Reserve force.

The award symbolizes the patriotism of the recipient, who has indicated support of the national defense by adopting personnel policies which make it easier for employees to participate in the National Guard and Reserve. Only one award is given in each state annually.

The Pro Patria award was presented to Richard M. Davis, president of Martin Marietta Manned Space Systems, by Edward L. Diffenthal, chairman of the Louisiana Committee for Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve.

Martin Marietta has a history of supporting all aspects of the U.S. military. The corporation's policy not only meets the requirements of providing time off for active duty and guaranteeing reinstatement at the end of that duty with no loss of seniority, but also makes provisions to supplement the income of any employee who would have suffered a personal financial loss because of their participation in the Reserve.

For periods greater than three weeks, the corporation will grant employees additional leaves of absences and still ensure their position when they return without interruption to seniority, retirement, service time or accrual of vacation.

Irrigation relieves vegetable risks

By Ralph Ballew
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

While most Mississippians opt for a spring garden, research at the Truck Crops Branch Experiment Station here continually points to the strengths of vegetables grown in the fall.

Those findings are enhanced further with the emphasis that researchers now place on using irrigation when growing vegetables, particularly in the fall.

"In the fall of the year we have less rainfall in Mississippi," said Dr. C.P. Hegwood, station superintendent. "With irrigation this gives more control over moisture, letting us apply water when the plants need it."

He said one of the problems with vegetable gardening in the spring is too much water from natural rainfall.

"But whether spring or fall, irrigation is one of the essential ingredients needed for success with vegetables," he said. "Without irrigation, I would not plant the first vegetable seed—spring or fall."

Hegwood's philosophy was successfully illustrated at the 9th annual Fall Vegetable Show held at the station on Oct. 15. More than 450 people attended.

"This was our ninth straight year in growing fall vegetables without a failure," Hegwood continued. "Visitors were able to see fall vegetables that included 25 different species of a total of 150 different vegetables."

The station uses overhead sprinkler irrigation with the water coming from sediment ponds. He said vegetable crops need an acre-inch of water each week, either from rainfall or irrigation.

"If I was starting fresh, I would go with a trickle irrigation system," he continued. "Trickle irrigation would only cost about 15 percent as much as our overhead system, with savings coming from less energy requirements and less water used."

Along with irrigation, Hegwood listed weed and grass control as a high priority item for success with vegetables. The station uses chemicals and cultivation to control weeds and grass.

Celebrate the holidays with seafood work space and utensils between preparing, cooking and serving seafood. Seafood is nutritious, delicious and offers endless opportunities when entertaining guests. Here are a number of simple ideas to prepare seafood during the holidays.

Marinated Shrimp

- ▶ 2 pounds raw shrimp, medium size
 - ▶ 8 ounce bottle Italian dressing
 - ▶ ¼ cup chopped parsley
 - ▶ 6 drops hot sauce
 - ▶ Romaine leaves, lemons, limes for garnish
- Under cold running water, peel and devein shrimp, leave tails intact. Place shrimp in steamer inside a 4 quart pot. Add 1 cup water, cover and steam 3-5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Shrimp are cooked when they turn pink and are firm.

Remove cooked shrimp and cover with cold water. Drain shrimp, add Italian dressing, parsley and hot sauce.

Chill for 1-2 hours. Line large platter with Romaine and garnish with lemon and lime slices.

Garlic Shrimp

- ▶ 2 pounds raw shrimp, medium size
- ▶ 2 tablespoons butter
- ▶ 2 tablespoons olive oil
- ▶ 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- ▶ ¼ teaspoon basil leaves
- ▶ ½ teaspoon oregano
- ▶ 4 cloves garlic, minced

Peel and devein shrimp. Preheat oven to 450°F. In a small sauce pan melt butter. Add olive oil, parsley, basil, oregano, garlic and lemon juice to the butter and simmer. Place shrimp in shallow baking dish. Pour butter mixture over shrimp. Bake for 5 minutes. Stir shrimp one-half way through cooking time to evenly coat. Serve warm with tooth picks.

Angels On Horseback

- ▶ 1 pound scallops, bay, sea or Calico
- ▶ 16 slices bacon, cut in quarters
- ▶ ½ cup minced parsley
- ▶ Paprika
- ▶ Pepper
- ▶ Toothpicks

Alternate scallops and bacon quarters on toothpicks. Sprinkle with parsley and seasonings. Place on broiler rack and broil about 4 inches from source of heat for 3-5 minutes. Turn carefully. Broil 3-5 minutes longer or until bacon is crisp and scallops are firm. Yield: approximately 3 dozen hors d'oeuvres.

Sauteed Oysters

- ▶ 1 quart oysters, drained
- ▶ 1 stick butter or margarine
- ▶ 1 teaspoon lemon pepper
- ▶ 1/8 teaspoon onion powder
- ▶ 1/8 teaspoon Italian seasoning
- ▶ 1 loaf French Bread, cut into ¼" thick rounds

In a one quart sauce pan simmer oysters until the edges curl, drain and set aside liquid. Melt butter and add remaining ingredients. Simmer over low heat until butter is melted. Serve oysters in chafing dish with French Bread rounds on the side.

Oyster liquid can be used later in soups and stews.

Sauteed Mussels

- ▶ 2 quarts mussels in shell
- ▶ 1 stick butter or margarine
- ▶ 1 teaspoon lemon pepper
- ▶ 1/8 teaspoon Italian seasoning
- ▶ 1 loaf French Bread, cut into ¼" thick rounds

Steam mussels just until they open, remove meat. In a 1 quart sauce pan melt butter and add seasonings. Add mussels and heat throughout. Serve mussels in chafing dish with French Bread rounds on the side.

Poached Salmon

- ▶ 1 4-6 pound salmon, head-on and gutted, skin on
- ▶ 1½ cups dry white wine
- ▶ ¼ cup parsley sprigs
- ▶ 2 bay leaves
- ▶ 1 cup chopped celery tops
- ▶ 1 cup Julienne carrots
- ▶ 2 onions, sliced thin
- ▶ 6 peppercorns
- ▶ 1½ teaspoons thyme or dill
- ▶ Cheesecloth

Garnish with lemons, olives, parsley. In a large fish poacher or roasting pan with a tight fitting lid add wine and vegetables. Place two layers of cheesecloth over vegetables in roasting pan with enough to hang over the edges to use as handles to remove fish once cooked.

To use the 10 minute cooking rule, measure fish at its thickest part with a ruler and cook 10 minutes per inch at 450°F. Place salmon on cheesecloth, add enough hot water to submerge fish and cover with lid.

Fish is done when it begins to flake easily. Once cooked, cool and carefully remove salmon using the cheesecloth handles. Place salmon on platter and chill. Before serving garnish with paprika, sliced olives or lemon slices. Serve with Dill Sauce

Dill Sauce

- ▶ 1 cup dairy sour cream
- ▶ 1 cup plain yogurt
- ▶ ¼ cup mayonnaise
- ▶ ¼ cup minced fresh dill or 1½ teaspoons dried dill
- ▶ Dash bottled hot pepper sauce
- ▶ Dash pepper

Combine sour cream, yogurt, mayonnaise, dill, mustard and hot pepper sauce. Add pepper to taste. Blend well. Allow to stand at least ¼ hour to blend flavors or refrigerate up to 24 hours. Serve at room temperature. Yield about 2 cups.

Branded Crab

- ▶ 1 pound crabmeat, cartilage removed
- ▶ 2 tablespoons margarine
- ▶ ¼ cup fresh parsley, finely chopped
- ▶ 2 tablespoons brandy or cognac
- ▶ 1/8 teaspoon salt
- ▶ 1/8 teaspoon white pepper
- ▶ Pinch nutmeg
- ▶ Pinch paprika
- ▶ 1 large fresh lemon
- ▶ 1 loaf French Bread, sliced ¼" thick rounds, lightly toasted

In large skillet or electric wok, melt margarine. Add parsley, brandy, salt and white pepper, nutmeg, paprika and the juice of one lemon. Add crabmeat and toss lightly to heat and coat. Be careful not to break up lumps of meat. Serve hot with toasted French bread rounds.

How to avoid holiday blues

By Linda S. Moore
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Holidays do not have to be a time for depression and loneliness for people without families available to celebrate the season. The holiday spirit is a choice more than a gift.

Norine Barnes, family and child development specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, said holiday depression is usually caused by unrealistic expectations.

"Some people seem to expect the holiday season in itself to make them happy," Barnes said. "Part of not being depressed and/or lonely is seeing what is realistic."

The specialist said that comparing your holiday with other families or with childhood memories is one reason the season may be less than happy, especially when there are not other family members to celebrate with.

Dr. Leland Fager, director of the Mississippi State University Counseling Center, said people should concentrate on what they have rather than what they do not have. "Those living in a fantasy world are more prone to depression because of what their situation is in reality.

"Focus on what you have rather than what you don't have," Fager said.

Barnes said traditions are an important aspect of Christmas regardless of an individual's situation. "Tradition gives our lives the added sparkle. It's the spice of life," she said.

"If you are without family during the holidays, take the initiative to invite friends over or even to invite yourself to spend time with others," Barnes said. "They may not realize you will be alone and would be glad to share their holidays with you."

She said special holiday programs such as adopt-a-family and nursing home visitations are good when done properly. However, if done selfishly, they could do more harm than good to the recipient.

"Giving to the poor or less fortunate needs to be done with sensitivity to the recipients," Barnes said. "Think about how they would most enjoy receiving, not how you would most enjoy giving."

"At a nursing home, listening is the most important gift you can give. It's more important than a piece of cake and a glass of punch," she said. Doing things on a one-time basis is not very beneficial in the long run.

She said there is one basic rule everyone can observe to prevent the holiday blues. Make a budget and stick to it. "Overspending for Christmas is one of the most destructive things you can do," Barnes said.

Fager said people must take responsibility for their own lives, including the amount of money they invest in presents for family and friends. "People need to understand it's not the price tag on the gift. It really is the thought that counts," Fager said.

Christmas House open

Mississippi State Hospital recently kicked off the holiday season with the opening of its Christmas House.

The MSH Christmas House, which is open seven days a week to visitors, is the center for gift donations from the community. It is now bustling with activity and the spirit of giving as employees and volunteers prepare personalized gift packages for more than 1,450 patients, many of whom have little or no family ties.

Donations are being received from all areas of the state from civic and service organizations, churches, businesses, scouting groups and individuals. They result in a candy-fruit bag and a gift bag for each patient to enjoy.

All gifts, which are tax deductible, can be mailed or delivered to: Department of Information and Volunteer Services, Mississippi State Hospital, Building 71, Whitefield, MS. 39193.

Live oak disease may be serious problem

A potentially devastating fungus has been identified on live oak trees along the Mississippi Gulf Coast. The fungus, Endothia parasitica, is the same fungus for the near destruction of the American chestnut.

In October, a group of scientists and professionals from the United States Forest Service, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, and Mississippi Forestry Commission met to evaluate some selected problems on coastal trees.

The Endothia fungus turned out to be one of these problems.

Harrison County Forester Kent Grizzard and County Agent Mike

Aden noted the problem after checking with officials in their own organizations, went to the United States Forest Service laboratory in Gulfport for assistance.

The Endothia fungus was identified from cultures grown in the laboratory by Dr. Ted Filer, pathologist at the United States Forest Service's Stoneville Experiment Station.

The fungus can be identified as a canker, or disfigurement, near a wound on a branch or stem of a tree. The bark may split and pull away from the wood and the portion of the tree outward from the canker often dies. Tiny orange spores may be present near the infected area.

Unlike the American chestnut, Dr. Filer believes the live oak to have a level of resistance to the disease that inhibits its spread throughout the tree. This resistance localizes the fungus, restricting it to the area of infection.

At present, there is no fungicide available to control the infection. Since the fungus enters through wounds, the first recommended measure for controlling the disease is damage prevention. Protect trees from injury! Fertilization and watering during dry periods may aid in strengthening a tree's natural defense system. All pruning tools should be thoroughly cleaned with a sterilizing solution of clorox and rubbing alcohol after each use.

Other problems noted on live oak by a group included lightning, construction damage, and mowing injuries to trees along the Hwy. 90 median. A yellow bark bacteria was also identified but is believed to be of only minor significance.

Senior Citizens Happenings

By Eve McDonald

By Eve McDonald CHRISTMAS PARTY

Wednesday, Dec. 16th at the American Legion Hall in Bay St. Louis from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

This Christmas lunch is provided to our Senior Citizens by the Post No. 139 Legion and served by their Auxiliary. We certainly do appreciate their generosity.

Mrs. Flowers, Bay High School music director, will bring her choir to entertain us at 11:30 a.m. She especially asked that we ask our seniors not to be noisy at this time as some of the special numbers are soft and cannot be heard if there is a lot of talking and in and out going on.

Please try to be at the hall by 11 so we can all be seated by the time our choir comes.

Anyone wishing to provide door prizes may bring them to the party and put them on the prize table. Our quilt will be awarded at this time also.

HOLIDAYS

The Center will be closed Christmas Eve, Christmas Day, and New Years Day. We will not have ceramics classes these two weeks so we can get caught up and cleaned up.

We will have meals and a few classes on the days we are open and meals-on-wheels will be delivered as well as cold packs for the week days that we are closed.

We are seeking, and have one, volunteers who will provide a hot Christmas dinner for our shut-ins. Call 467-9292 if you either need a meal or will provide one. Thanks!

IRS News

New filing requirements mean fewer taxpayers may need to file tax returns this year

Recent tax laws changes may mean you do not have to file a Federal income tax return, U.S. Individual Income Tax Form 1040, says Tully Miller, IRS district director.

For 1987, a single individual or a taxpayer who qualifies as head of household must file a return only if his or her gross income is greater than $4,440. For married individuals who file jointly, the amount is $7,560. For a qualifying widow or widower, the amount is $5,660. For married individuals who file separately, the amount is $1,900.

The amounts for taxpayers who are blind, but not yet 65 years of age, are higher. For 1987, a single taxpayer who is blind but under 65 needs to file only if his or her gross income exceeds $4,900.

A taxpayer who is blind but under 65 who qualifies to file as head of household must file only if his or her gross income exceeds $6,300. For a qualifying widow or widower who is blind but under 65, the amount is $6,900.

For married couples filing jointly, if either spouse is blind and both spouses are under 65, the filing requirement is $8,800. For married individuals who file separately, the amount remains $1,900.

The amounts for taxpayers who are 65 years of age or older are even higher. For 1987, a single taxpayer 65 or older needs to file only if his or her gross income exceeds $5,650.

A taxpayer who is 65 years of age or older who qualifies to file as head of household must file only if his or her gross income exceeds $7,050. For a qualifying widow or widower 65 years of age or older, the amount is $7,500.

For married couples filing jointly, if either the husband or the wife is at least 65 years of age or older, the filing requirement is $9,400. If both spouses are 65 or older, the amount is $10,000. For married individuals 65 years of age or older who file separately, the filing amount is still $1,900.

A separate rule applies to taxpayers with self-employment income. A taxpayer with self-employment income must file a return if his or her net income from self-employment is $400 or more.

Some taxpayers whose gross income is less than the amounts listed above may find that they should still file tax returns. Taxpayers who had Federal income taxes withheld from their wages during 1987 should file tax returns to receive refunds of those taxes. Also, taxpayers who have a dependent child living with them and earn less than $15,432 may find that they qualify for the earned income credit. This credit can be claimed only by filing a Federal tax return.

An individual who may be claimed as a dependent by another taxpayer may need to file at a lower level of income than other taxpayers.

For more information, order free IRS Publication 920, "Explanation of the Tax Reform Act of 1986 for Individuals," by writing to the IRS Forms Distribution Center, P.O. Box 9903, Bloomington, IL 61799, or by calling IRS toll-free at 1-800-424-3676.

Teenage mothers can get help with motherhood, child abuse

Teen-age mothers weathering the difficult transition from childhood to motherhood can get help through a volunteer program developed by Billie Jean Sewell, an assistant professor of social work at The University of Mississippi.

She hopes to help these teen-agers through "Models To Assist Teen-age Mothers and Prevention of Child Abuse," a grant project funded by the National Center of Child Abuse. The program—proposed and administered by the Commission for Children and Youth of the Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs—is under the direction of that department. The program's guides include information on teen parenting and child abuse.

Sewell was asked to design a program that could be implemented by volunteers at a minimal cost. The end result was "About You...About Your Baby," a curriculum package designed to be used by local volunteers, health departments or school system personnel in their community. Ideally, the program spans 10 weeks with volunteers meeting weekly with the teen-age mothers as a group.

The curriculum is divided into five parts: a training guide for volunteers, the text, a workbook which serves as a baby book and a record of goals set by the mother for the baby herself, an interview guide for the volunteers, and evaluation forms to be completed by the volunteer and participant.

Anyone interested in the program can contact the Commission for Children and Youth at (601) 949-2054 or Ms. Sewell at (601) 232-7336. The Commission will offer a copy of the models and a consultant to help train volunteers. Consultants will be subject to availability. The program materials are free and, upon receipt of the models, they become public domain and can be reproduced and used in any way, Ms. Sewell said.

An individualized COMPUTER PRINTOUT will be given to every person along with additional health information.

Nutritional and weight loss programs, monitored by our physicians, are available.
